

Sharon and Bruce Slover '76 Texas A&M Galveston Corps of Cadets Endowed Scholarship

Established in 2024 by Sharon and Bruce Slover '76

Sharon and Bruce Slover '76, are dedicated supporters of Texas A&M University at Galveston and established a scholarship to address a lack of financial aid for Drill and Ceremonies cadets in the Corps of Cadets. Their inspiration came from their grandson, a junior in the Corps, whose situation highlighted the challenges these students face. Recognizing that non-license cadets often don't qualify for traditional scholarships or financial hardship assistance, they created this scholarship to support those who choose the rigorous path of the Corps while earning their degrees at Texas A&M-Galveston.

Bruce and Sharon hope their gift will spotlight Texas A&M-Galveston as a "hidden jewel" within The Texas A&M system and encourage more former students to support the campus. Bruce's career in oil and gas equipment manufacturing and Texas politics, along with Sharon's roles in real estate, political leadership, and public service, have fostered their appreciation for leadership development through the Corps. They believe their scholarship will not only aid individual cadets but also strengthen the Corps, which they view as central to the spirit of the Galveston campus.
